Alzheimer’s Orange County’s Healthy Aging Center: Acacia Celebrates Transportation Coordinator Jim Nguyen as a Strawberry Festival Hero

Team from licensed adult day center will join parade in Garden Grove, May 28

IRVINE, California, May 20, 2022 – Healthy Aging Center: Acacia in Garden Grove will celebrate the center’s Transportation Coordinator Jim Nguyen as a Community Hero at the 2022 Garden Grove Strawberry Festival. More than 40 Acacia staff and friends will march in the Festival’s annual parade behind the vehicle carrying Jim and his family on May 28.

Alzheimer’s Orange County (AlzOC) owns and operates the community-based services provider that serves both the medical and social needs of individuals who are living at home but need daytime assistance for their health needs.

An employee of Acacia for 13 years, Jim jumped into action in 2020 when the state issued a stay-at-home order and suspended onsite services to help re-think how to get services to participants in their homes. Jim was instrumental in helping get food, essential items, friendly visits, and activities’ packets set up and delivered to the participants.

Along with staff, he organized all routes and donation pick-ups, and also took a route, himself. Without Jim and his dedication, this would not have been possible. He rallied the team and they all worked together to accomplish this goal.

“I would like people to know that Acacia is a great place for seniors,” said Jim, whose grandfather came to Acacia four years before needing at-home care. “I am very proud to be honored as a community hero! “

“Jim is a great example of the exemplary people who bring their dedication and expertise to our organization,” said AlzOC CEO and President Jim McAleer.
