The Other Dementias: A Look Under the Umbrella

Under the umbrella term of dementia, Alzheimer's disease is only one of the many types that exist. We will take a closer look at many of the non-Alzheimer's forms of dementia, including Vascular, Lewy Body, Parkinson's, Frontotemporal, Primary Progressive Aphasia, and other sleep, mood and anxiety disorders. Presented by UCI Health Behavioral Neurologist, Dr. Brian Hitt, we will learn about the causes, symptoms, treatments and how these forms of dementia are diagnosed.

At the completion of the course, participants will be able to:

1. Recognize forms of dementia that are not Alzheimer's disease.
2. Identify key features of other forms of dementia.
3. Describe how various forms of dementia are assessed and diagnosed.

Presenter: Brian Hitt, M.D. is a board-certified behavioral neurologist who specializes in the diagnosis and management of Alzheimer's disease and other cognitive and memory disorders. He holds a medical degree from Northwestern University's Feinberg School of Medicine and a PhD in cell and molecular neuroscience. He has conducted extensive basic research into the cellular and molecular mechanisms of Alzheimer's and related neurodegenerative diseases. His current research interests include bench-to-bedside translational studies to develop novel diagnostic and therapeutic ways to target the tau protein.
