GETTING DEMENTIA CARE RIGHT

TUESDAY, JULY 9, 2024 11:30AM PST - 12:30PM PST

With the global aging population, dementia has become a significant public health concern, requiring specialized care approaches that prioritize dignity, autonomy, and well-being. This course provides a comprehensive overview of dementia care, focusing on best practices and strategies to ensure quality care for individuals living with dementia. Learn evidence-based techniques to manage challenging behaviors, improve communication, and navigate ethical considerations while providing dignified care for those living with dementia.

At the completion of the course, participants will be able to:

1. Develop a nuanced understanding of dementia care including common misperceptions.
2. Acquire practical skills in person-centered care and effective communication techniques to enhance interactions with individuals living with dementia
3. Identify and implement evidence-based strategies for creating a culture consisting of empathy, dignity, and respect.
